

Stone Age people - Palaeolithic - Activity 2

Cave art was a very important part of communication. Early people are thought to have used the cave art to tell stories. Often these stories seem to be about hunting for animals.

Using the examples from the video, I would like you to create your own cave art. You could use paint, pastels, crayons, or pencils. What is happening in your story? Which animal is being hunted? Did you catch it? If you did catch it, what will you use the animal for?

Remember to look at the colours the Stone age people used and the animals they painted.

After you have finished your cave art, you can write a paragraph explaining your story.

Here are some pictures of cave art to inspire you.

